Please join our own Bishop Shamana at A Children's Day of Action at the California State Capitol in Sacramento on April 20th.

The United Methodist churches in our conference are coming together, teenagers and toddlers, parents and concerned citizens, to draw attention to the plight of the homelessness and specifically to those whose voices are too small to be heard on the subject—children. The march to the Capitol, rally and legislative visits are sponsored by the California task force of the United Methodist Bishop's Initiative on Children and Poverty. On April 20th we—our children and ourselves—will ask our governor and our legislators to make sure that all of California's children have access to affordable healthcare.

Our concern is for the children and the poor, and legislation that directly affects the well-being of children, families, and individuals at risk. We have a VOICE and can make a statement about our INTENT to work for change on behalf of all God's children. Bishop Beverly J. Shamana will speak to the crowd about why the needs facing California and the country's homeless children must be important to Christians. "There's a spiritual from my culture that we sing that says, 'All God's children got shoes.' . . . We must also be willing to demand that All God's Children need homes—safe homes. And it's not about waiting for the sweet by and by. God wants our children to have homes in the here and now, and we can make that happen."

Pastor's Letter

I found out something fairly startling this week. I've been a Methodist all my life, but I realized that I was never "confirmed." Maybe that isn't so startling. I've been a member of the church since I attended a membership class when I was twelve or so, but it wasn't until 1964 (after I was 12) when the word "confirmation" even appeared in the Book of Discipline.

You may be asking yourself, "Why is Pastor Shirley rattling on about this? What in the world is she talking about?"

You see, we've started a Confirmation Class for the young people 6th grade and older who are interested in learning more about their faith and church and deciding if it is time to profess that faith to become professing members of the United Methodist Church. In the back of my mind, I've been realizing that my own membership class had little to do with the things we're doing and going to be doing, even after I account for the differences in educational style over the last 40 years. So, a little research has turned up why. Back in the day, we learned polity (the structure and rules of the church), we learned church history (the Wesley family, the Methodist Church in the US, that sort of thing), and one Sunday we were ushered into membership of the First Methodist Church of Hendersonville, North Carolina.

Since that time, our (that is, the United Methodist Church's) understanding of what it means to be a member of the church has changed. To understand church membership, we have to start with baptism.

Baptism is a sacrament. A sacrament is an act in which God does something—more than a sign or symbol and at some level a holy mystery—the working of God in ways we can only partially understand. Through baptism, our liturgy says,

We are initiated into Christ's holy church.
We are incorporated into God's mighty acts of Salvation
And given new birth through water and the spirit.
All this is god's gift, offered to us without price. (United Methodist Hymnal, pg 33)

So, in fact, these young people of ours are already "members" of the church by right of their baptism: they are preparatory members.

The United Methodist Church has struggled with the language and structure of this understanding for years. The issues are not only language, but theological issues and administrative/legal issues. It is not practical for infants and children to hold voting rights at church meetings, yet they are clearly cherished members of the body of Christ. At their baptism, we, the local church, have pledged to be part of their upbringing in the faith. Baptized adults, on the other hand, can and should make their own decisions for their own reasons. Their membership records should be (or not be) where they choose, not necessarily where they attend.

So, beginning this year, in accordance with the rulings of General Conference, our church records will account for our preparatory members—those baptized young people under the age of 18 who have not confirmed through their own act their desire to be professing members of the church. Adults and confirmed youth whom we have previously thought of as “members” are now “professing” members.

And now, perhaps, this gives us a better understanding of Confirmation: Confirmation—whether by our young people who confirm their faith for the first time, or by others who may be confirming their faith again—is a personal response to God’s grace. It is a time to affirm faith and to affirm the intention to live in faithful discipleship. Confirmation ties together God’s act in Christ, the faith and faithfulness of the church, and the personal response of the individual into a rite that becomes a means of grace.

Just so you know, I’ve confirmed my faith on several occasions. Unlike baptism, confirmation of our faith is a repeatable rite: It is a way of celebrating growth in faith and understanding and celebrating the presence of God’s spirit in our lives. Our young people will celebrate their Confirmation on May 15th. If any of you would like to celebrate your own confirmation of faith on the same day, call me and we’ll talk. It will be a grand celebration!

Grace and Peace,
Pastor Shirley

April Fool’s Day

The origin of April Fool’s Day involves changes in the calendar. At one time, the New Year celebration began on March 25 and ended on April 1. However, in 1582 King Charles IX adopted the Gregorian calendar and January 1 became the beginning of the New Year. Those who forgot or ignored the new date received foolish gifts and invitations to nonexistent parties. The victim of such a prank was known as a “poisson d’avril” or “April fish.”

God's Politics: Why the Right Gets It Wrong and the Left Doesn't Get It

Written by Jim Wallis, a progressive evangelical Christian who founded and edits Sojourners magazine, God's Politics challenges us to revive the spirit of 19th century evangelical Christianity that was a driving force of child labor laws, women's right to vote, founding schools, colleges, and hospitals, and many other efforts to elevate and minister to the sick, impoverished, and marginalized people of that time.

Advocating "bridges not wedges," Mr. Wallis speaks to and for an ever-growing segment of the Christian church who feel their faith has been hijacked for political and ideological purposes, and who do not want to see Christian values reduced to the two hot-button issues of abortion and homosexuality.
